Postgraduate Programmes

Master's Programmes

Students who withdraw from a Master's programme after the start of the programme must pay the tuition fees of each module they have attended.

Students applying for suspension of studies (of maximum twelve months) cannot stop their checks or salary deductions or claim any sort of refunds. The Vice Chancellor may at his discretion vary the terms of the policy dependent on the individual circumstances.

PhD Programmes

Students who withdraw from a PhD programme within three months of registration are eligible for a 50% refund of the yearly fees paid. After the three-month period, no refund will be granted.

Undergraduate Full-time Programmes

For Semester Programmes

- Withdrawal after registration and within week one of the semester - refund of 50% of the semester fees
- Withdrawal during week two to five of the semester - refund of 25% of the semester fees
- Withdrawal after week five of the semester - no refund.

Undergraduate Part-time Programmes

- Withdrawal after registration - Students must pay tuition fees of each module covered.
- In case the amount paid or deducted from salary exceeds the fees due based on the number of modules attended, such excess fees, regardless of the amount, will not be refunded if a student neglects to formally withdraw from the programme after six months from the last module attended.
- The same policy will apply to those students availing of the salary deduction scheme for Emirates Staff wherein the total amount due will be continuously deducted from salary or settled in the final pay in case of resignation.
